Comment Period

Comment from the Public

Eddie Harrison spoke to the Board on Child Protective Services from the local perspective, advising that workers are taught to put a child's safety first. He reported that children below the age of five years are the most vulnerable. As a director, he attends child fatality court cases in his locality.

Mr. Harrison advised there is a huge drug problem in southwest Virginia, advising that planning district 1 and 2 both have drug programs for citizens.

He reported that Foster Care caseloads have tripled in the last few years.

Comment from Local Boards and Directors of Social Services

Eddie Harrison, Director of Russell County said there have been many changes due to budget issues and that local agencies will continue to do their jobs with the resources available. Family Engagement, Structured Decision Making and Transformation will bring changes to the agency. He believes that local agencies can't continue to stay stagnant and do business as usual even when doing good, we must have a vision to do things better. He commented that he understands Structured Decision Making, and if implemented properly and funding available, it will be a very important tool to help children. He reminded that training on this tool would standardize the way we do business.

He feels you can't do CPS without Family Engagement.

He shared his concern over the lack of dollars for adult services, advising that elder abuse has tripled. There is also a problem with lack of adult services in his area.

Commissioner Brown asked Mr. Harrison to share his recommendations for best practice and implementation. Mr. Harrison feels that we need to ensure local agencies have staff to take on the extra work because of the learning curve associated with new programs.

The Chairman thanked Mr. Harrison for his attendance to Board meetings and remarked he had been an asset to the Board in sharing his expertise with the members.

Expectations are that the federal Office of Community Services will approve the continuation grant for training and technical assistance for an additional year.

In closing, Mr. Schuyler spoke of the passing of Edith Jones, a pillar of the Virginia Community Action Network working with the STOP Organization serving Hampton Roads.

Comment from the Commissioner of Social Services

Commissioner Brown thanked the Board for the opportunity to be here and share his philosophy with the Board.

He commended the smooth transition that occurred over the past three weeks and said it was due in large part to Ms. Schultze, Mr. Steinhauer, Ms. Flanagan, Ms. McGhee, and other directors, remarking there is a very capable staff within the department. (Applause from the Board.)

He thanked local agency directors and their staff for effectively carrying out the laws and policies of social services. Without successful leadership from the directors at the local level, benefits and services would not be administered effectively.

Mr. Brown spoke about his previous position as Public Relations Director at the department during Welfare Reform and the difficult times that were faced, saying that the Empowerment Commissioner took an idea and it was made into law. Once the law was passed and regulations promulgated, local agencies had the task to implement; and it was this implementation that changed people's lives for the better. (Members gave a round of applause for the outstanding work done at the local level.)

Commissioner had an opportunity to meet with division directors and hold staff "campfire" meetings and said there is a clear difference of professionalism and level of excellence within the department. He is excited about being the biggest cheerleader for the agency and hopefully the biggest servant.

That being said, we are facing new and continuing issues. We see child welfare transformation as a success and need to expand up it. There are also challenges with federal health care reform. There are currently 800,000 people receiving Medicaid benefits in the state. We expect 275- 425,000 additional people to be added to the caseload. The local departments are going to shoulder all of that burden. Central Office will need to come up with strategies to help them; keeping in mind additional funds are not available.

He stated there are people who do not have a "safety net" of relationships with family, friends, church, etc. For these people, we need to be aggressive with their needs. He wants to pursue reducing the 30-45 day timeframe for application approval without increasing the food stamp error rate.

He advised that 1 in 10 people receive Medicaid; 1 in 7 receive SNAP benefits; 1 in 4 children in Virginia receive Child Support. 1 in 3 children are born out of wedlock. Since these problems are at the local level, solutions are generally at the local level, so we will be looking to the Board, directors, providers, etc. for their expertise.

The Governor has prioritized Prisoner Reentry as an initiative to help prisoners to transition from the criminal justice system, realizing there is a 30-60 day window of opportunity to reconnect with family, obtain a job, and find a place to stay.

Another initiative that we will be focused on internally is to continue growing as an agency of excellence and we produce outcome measures for what we do, realizing that although some of the things we do can't be measured, most of them can. We need to measure our success in a clear objective way and tie our success to those key performance measures. Commissioner is working with HR and division directors to develop a strategy to continue taking the agency into a level where we are tracking everything that we do from a performance-based model.

He remarked that how you do things is as important as the things you do. There is dignity, value and worth in everyone and you should treat everyone with the dignity and honor they deserve; you can disagree with someone without being disagreeable; if its not broken, don't fix it and if it isn't broken, don't try to break it.

The Chairman thanked Commissioner Brown for sharing his philosophy and aspirations. The Board looks forward to the excellent opportunity to work together.

Update on National Governor Association Meeting

Marianne McGhee, Director of Public Affairs provided an update on the National Governor Association (NGA).

In 2008, Virginia was one of ten states awarded a $12,000 grant from the NGA to engage and educate new stakeholders and convene a summit resulting in strategies to reduce poverty in the Commonwealth.

On May 7, 2009, Governor Timothy Kaine announced the creation of taskforce "Rethinking Poverty: Exploring economic Opportunity for All Virginias," the state's summit on poverty. The taskforce, co-chaired by Secretary of Health and Human Resources Marilyn Tavenner and Richmond attorney Robert Grey, is a collection of public and private-sector partners, who will make policy recommendations and present a final report to the Governor's office in spring 2010.

On July 18, 2009, Virginia hosted the largest statewide conversation at 25 local community college sites and one public facility in Richmond, on the issue of poverty. Citizens had the chance to answer the question, "If you had two minutes to talk with Governor Kaine – or your elected official -- what would you recommend to reduce poverty in Virginia and why?"

Committee recommendations included asset development, resiliency, and workforce training and education. (A copy of this report is attached to the minutes.)

Margaret Luca confirmed that the Poverty Committee would remain a viable committee of the Board.

Family and Children's Trust Fund (FACT) Conference Update

Deputy Commissioner Margaret Schultze provided an update on the FACT Conference and shared a copy of the June 2010 Fact Report with members.

This report brings together data that highlights conditions for Virginians of all ages who have experienced violence within their families. The report presents a unified portrait of the extent and impact of family violence across the life cycles of individuals, ranging from the very young to the elderly.

The FACT hopes that communities and the Commonwealth will use the report to increase awareness of the scope and impact of family violence; set and track goals for improving local and state conditions; and engage residents, policymakers, and leaders from all sectors of the community in taking action. (A copy of this report is attached to the minutes.)

Ms. Brisendine asked if the State Crime Commission was involved in this conference. Ms. Schultze will check and advise. Ms. Schultze will also transmit an electronic copy of the report to Virginia legislators.

Ms. Schultze offered to have Fran Inge, FACT Director attend a future Board meeting to provide an in-depth review of the Report.
